Bring the Arts to Ashland-Greenwood

The Ashland-Greenwood
Community Performing Arts Center will finally close the fine arts gap in the Ashland-Greenwood school district and surrounding communities

by providing a space apart from the high school gymnasium for students to sing, dance, act and more.

The center will serve youth and adult dancers, artists, musicians and performers — and host thousands of guests from all over eastern Nebraska.

More than half of the $4.5 million expected total cost has already been raised. Now, you have a chance to help bring this long-awaited project to life.

INVESTING IN OUR

Thriving Community

The Ashland-Greenwood Community Performing Arts Center will not only benefit the people within our communities, it will also serve as a beacon of fine arts, attracting visitors and new residents.

IMAGINE THIS:

The modern, versatile performing arts center design offers the following key features:

- Capacity for over 700 guests.
- Comfortable seating in a traditional auditorium layout, including a balcony.
- Exceptional acoustics for all types of musical performance.
- A mounted projector and screen, making community events and school meetings easy and accessible.
- State-of-the-art lighting features to support a wide variety of settings and stages.
